How to Make a Pom-Pom Snowman on a Christmas Card

First, print out the free snowman template. Cut it out neatly so you'll have clear outlines later. Place the stencil on an A6 double card and trace the lines with a pencil. This way, you'll know exactly where the head, body, and hat go—which makes crafting especially easy for beginners.

Preparing the surfaces: Ensuring the “ pompoms ” sticks securely

Now coat the marked areas one by one with “ handicraft glue.” It’s best to work in sections so the glue doesn’t dry before you place the “ pompoms ” pieces on top. Start with the large body section. This serves as a stable base and helps you build the snowman’s shape neatly right from the start.

pompoms Sticking on: Shaping the Body, Head, and Hat

Place the pompoms onto the still-damp adhesive areas and press them down gently. For the snowman, light-colored pompoms work well for the head and body, while you can use dark pompoms to create a hat. Be sure to place the pompoms close together. This will make the pom-pom collage look even and give the snowman a nice, fluffy texture.

Adding Details: Nose, wobbly eyes , and Accessories

Cut a short piece of “ chenille wire ” and bend it into a small nose. “ chenille wire ” is a soft wire with a fuzzy surface that’s easy to shape. Glue the nose in the center of the face and place the “ wobbly eyes. ” on top of it. This instantly gives your Christmas card a lively, friendly expression.

Adding a Scarf or Bow Tie: The Winter Look

Finally, glue on a small scarf or bow tie. The scarf has a particularly wintry feel and can extend slightly beyond the body area. A bow tie has a more compact look and is ideal if you want to give the snowman a more classic design. Let the glue dry thoroughly before closing the card or writing a message on it.

Final touches: Write on the card and give it as a gift

Carefully erase any visible pencil lines once everything is set. You can now write your Christmas message inside. The raised “ pompoms ” make the card a real eye-catcher—perfect as a handmade Christmas card, winter greeting, or a little something to go with a gift.
