Working time: 30 Minutes

With a rattan wreath, you can create a “christmas decoration ” with a natural look in no time. Island moss, orange slices, and “ cinnamon ” add warm colors and a cozy look that instantly creates a wintery atmosphere. Using hot glue allows you to decorate your door wreath or wall wreath neatly and securely. With a ribbon as a hanger, it fits perfectly on a door, window, or above the fireplace.

Natural-Looking Wreath

Decorate a Natural-Look Rattan Wreath for Christmas. Get your rattan wreath ready and decide which side will be the “top” when it’s finished. This way, you can place the decorations strategically, and the wreath will look balanced in the end. Keep the hot glue gun within reach, because when it comes to “ natural materials ,” it’s best to work in small steps.

Create the base: Glue Iceland moss to form a soft surface. Separate the Iceland moss into small tufts. Apply just a small dot of glue to the wreath and press the moss briefly into place. This creates a dense, natural moss surface.

Add accents: Arrange orange slices and cinnamon sticks. First, place the dried orange slices on the moss. to test the layout. Once you're happy with the arrangement, secure them with hot glue. Glue cinnamon sticks in a staggered pattern to create a lively look. This combination brings a classic Christmas look in a natural color palette: warm orange, brown and fresh green.

Delicate accents: scatter decoration for a wintry sparkle. Place scatter decoration —such as stars or small decorative elements—sparingly among moss, orange and cinnamon. Less is more here: the small accents create a wintry effect without overshadowing the natural look.

Attach the hanging mechanism: Tie a secure knot at ribbon Cut a ribbon to the appropriate length and tie it securely to the top of the rattan wreath. A tight double knot holds securely, even if the wreath is moved on the door or wall. Briefly align the wreath so the decorative side faces forward, and trim the ribbon ends if you want a clean line.

Finishing Touches for a Clean Look Check all glued areas. Press any loose natural materials back into place and don't remove any fine adhesive threads until the glue has cooled. This keeps the surface neat and gives your festive rattan wreath a high-quality look—perfect for winter decor with a natural vibe.

Now it's your turn If you're interested in creating more variations with natural materials, winter-themed embellishments and matching ribbons, you'll find everything you need in the online shop to make your next Christmas wreath right away.
